VOKLA / KIDS READERS

The Red Mitten

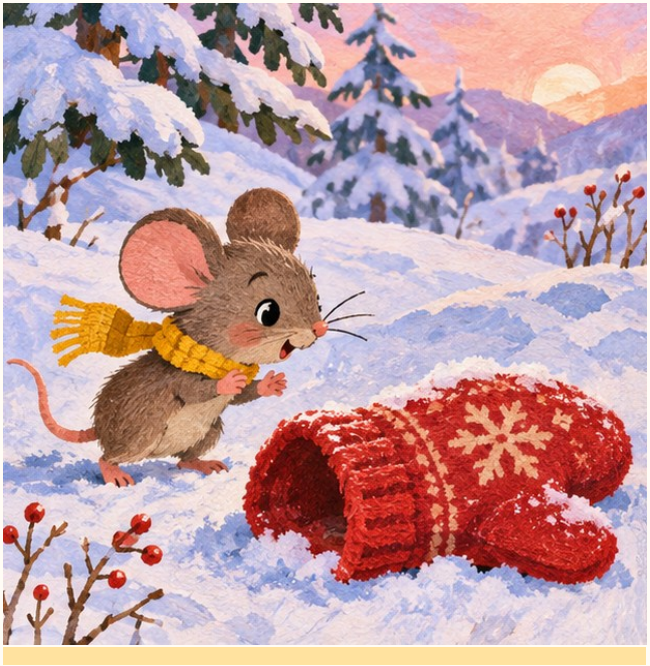

ENGLISH STORYBOOK / A1

VOKLA Press

Free student edition

A hand in the snow

Pip is a small mouse. His house is under a tree. One morning, everything is white. But one thing is red. “A hand!” says Pip. He runs behind the tree. The hand does not move. Pip looks again. “Oh! It’s a mitten.”

A heavy job

Pip pulls the mitten. It is big. He pulls again. Now it is at his door. He puts his head inside. It is soft and warm. His nose is warm. His ears are warm. “A good house for one mouse,” he says.

Two cold hands

Pip hears a girl. “My red mitten! Where is it?” She has one red hand and one cold hand. Pip looks at his new house. Then he looks at the girl. She is far away now. How can she see a little mouse in all this snow?

Look up!

Pip puts the red mitten on a low branch. Then he runs home. The girl comes back. She sees little tracks. She looks up. “There you are!” she says. Pip sits at his door. The girl waves two red hands. Pip waves one small paw.

AFTER THE STORY

Back to the story

1 Where is Pip’s home?

2 Why does Pip put the mitten on a branch?

YOUR TURN

Draw Pip’s tracks. Tell a partner where they go.

THREE WORDS FROM THE STORY

mitten • a warm cover for your hand

branch • part of a tree

tracks • marks that feet leave